Sanger and Valley View communities in shock after Kemp's motorcycle accident

Two Valley View residents and Sanger business owners were killed Sunday evening when their motorcycle was hit by a pickup truck at a rural intersection in Cooke County.

The Texas Department of Public Safety said 45-year-old Robert Kemp was driving the Harley Davidson west on FM 922 between Tioga and Valley View with Heather Kemp, 43, as his passenger.

Trooper C. Glass said the pickup, driven by 61-year-old William Hawk of Collinsville, failed to yield the right-of-way at the stop sign at County Road 215 and collided with the motorcycle.

Robert and Heather Kemp died at the scene. Hawk was not injured.

DPS said the investigation continues and that no additional information was available.

The news of the tragic accident has sent shockwaves through the communities of Sanger and Valley View, leaving friends, family, co-workers and employees in mourning.

Robert was a Gas Division Manager with Mabak Directional Drilling in Sanger, and Heather was an Insurance Agent with Hutcherson Insurance in Gainesville.

Heather and Robbie Kemp were known for their adventurous spirit and love for life. Heather

What should you do with ‘side gig’ money?

Financial FOCUS

By Allen Chick, Edward Jones

As you know, the gig economy has been booming over the past several years. If you’re thinking of using your skills to take on a side gig, what should you do with the money you’ll make?

There’s no one right answer for everyone, and the decisions you make should be based on your individual situation. And of course, you may simply need the extra income to support your lifestyle and pay the bills. But if you already have your cash flow in good shape, and you have some freedom with your gig money, consider these suggestions:

Contribute more to your IRA. If you couldn’t afford to contribute the maximum amount to your IRA, you may find it easier to do so when you have additional money coming in from a side gig. For the 2023 tax year, you can put in up to $6,500 to a traditional or Roth IRA, or $7,500 if you’re 50 or older. (Starting in 2024, this extra $1,000 “catch-up” contribution amount may be indexed for inflation.) The amount you can contribute to a Roth IRA is reduced, and eventually eliminated, at certain income levels.

Look for new investment opportunities. If you’re already maxing out your IRA, you might be able to find other investment possibilities for your side gig money. For example, if you have young children, perhaps you could use some of the money to invest in a 529 education savings plan. A 529 plan offers potential tax advantages and can be used for college, qualified trade school programs, and possibly some K-12 expenses. Please keep in mind that potential tax advantages will vary from state to state.

Build an emergency fund. Life is full of unexpected events — and some can be quite expensive. What if you needed a major car repair or required a medical procedure that wasn’t totally covered by your health insurance? Would you have the cash available to pay these bills? If not, would you be forced to dip into your IRA or 401(k)? This might not be a good move, as it could incur taxes and penalties, and deprive you of resources you might eventually need for retirement. That’s why you might want to use your gig earnings to help fund an emergency fund containing several months’ worth of living expenses, with the money kept in a liquid, low-risk account. To avoid being tempted to dip into your emergency fund, you may want to keep it separate from your daily spending accounts.

Pay down debts. Most of us will always carry some debts, but we can usually find ways to include the bigger ones — mortgage, car payments and so on — into our monthly budgets. It’s often the smaller debt payments, frequently associated with high-interest-rate credit cards, that cause us the most trouble, in terms of affecting our cash flow. If you can use some of your side gig money to pay down these types of debts, you could possibly ease some of the financial stress you might be feeling. And instead of directing money to pay for things you purchased in the past, you could use the funds to invest for your future.

As we’ve seen, your side gig money could open several promising windows of opportunity — so take a look through all of them.

Craft Supply Swap

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 18
11:30 AM - 1:30 PM

Get ready for Holiday crafting!
Come by to swap and share.

Supplies can be dropped off anytime from Wednesday, November 1 - Saturday, November 18.

SANGER PUBLIC LIBRARY    501 BOLIVAR ST    940-458-3257

Craft Supply Swap

BY Lynne S. Smiland

As the holidays approach and people start thinking about gifts, a point to consider is that hand-crafted items tend to be much more meaningful to the recipient and generally less expensive for the giver. With that in mind, Sanger Public Library can help crafters by holding another craft supply swap.

Saturday, November 18th, from 11:30 to 1:30 the library will put out all kinds of supplies that are no longer needed. These include yarn, fabric, patterns, scrapbook and stamping supplies, buttons and other notions, beads, books about crafts, and more. Participants are encouraged to donate their unwanted supplies also, but this is not a 1 to 1 swap. It is more “take what you can use”.

The public is also welcome to donate unwanted craft supplies. If we get an overabundance of items, we will save them for another craft supply swap or offer them to other libraries. Libraries offer lots of craft programs and donated supplies can help a tight budget!

For those who want to get started right away, the library’s knitting and crochet group meets at 2:00, and all crafters are welcome. Many of the regulars also engage in other crafts, such as cross stitch, jewelry making, diamond painting, cold porcelain, and more.

For more information, call the library at (940) 458-3257 or come by 501 Bolivar. We look forward to helping supply our local crafters!

District V Leadership Development Events

What a night the SHS students had at the District V Leadership Development Events. SHS administrators are so proud of these students and the work that they put into their teams to be successful. Many of them had never competed in a contest like this and stepped up to the challenge. Congratulations to all of the Sanger FFA members who competed in the contest. Two of the teams advanced to the Area V Leadership Development Events in Anna on Friday, November 17, 2023. Congratulations to the Agricultural Issues Forum and Radio Broadcasting for getting one step closer to the state contest.
