Owner of Bella Mansion Wedding Venue hopes to have it completed in 2022

The Dallas Morning News featured a story on December 25, 2021 about the Bella Mansion. The owner wants to bring it to life and hopes to have it finished in 2022.

For more than 30 years, this three-story mansion sat vacant in Sanger. The mammoth building on South Stemmons Street can be seen atop a hill by drivers cruising along Interstate 35.

The 27,000-square-foot residence was built in the 1980s by the Powell family, who wanted to turn it into a ranch for breeding and selling horses. The property was originally 72 acres and called the Double JP Ranch.

After a set of unforeseen circumstances, construction stopped and the mansion remained unoccupied for decades. Then, in 2020, a new owner decided to bring it back to life.

Isabel Ramey, a Flower Mound resident, remembers her conflicting feelings while planning her first wedding.

"We just realized how fun the wedding industry is," she said, "but also how nickel-and-dimed it is."

Most weddings require couples to shell out money for linens, silverware and food on top of the cost of renting a venue. Decorative items like a chandelier can add a few hundred dollars to a wedding tab.

Ramey said she spent six years driving by the mansion's "For Sale" sign and considered whether she should purchase the property and turn it into a wedding venue. She brought the house to her parents' attention, and after several months the family decided to put in an offer. They closed on the house January 2020, and Bella Mansions was born.

"That's when we were like, 'We can do this better,'" she said. "Let's create our own venue and allow people to see the beautiful stuff, whatever they want. That's it. That's what you're getting."

Before Ramey's team began working on the mansion, the exterior was a stone rock facade that was reminiscent of the '80s.

According to her team, the stone was beginning to deteriorate, so it was taken down, revealing a layer of black underneath. Some members of the community reached out to Ramey and said the rocks were part of the home's historic feature.

"The locals are very protective of it," she said. "It would cost significantly more to repair it with the original stone than to take it off and start over."

A large spiral staircase winds its way from the first floor up to the third floor at Bella Mansions in Sanger.

The mansion was intended to be a sprawling showpiece for the Powell family. Joe, Julie and their

Let's Kick off the New Year Right—Here Are 55 New Year's Resolution Ideas for 2022

1. Focus on a Passion, Not the Way You Look

Resolutions are in fact NOT an invitation to start a diet or a workout plan but a beautiful reminder that a new year can bring new life to our passions.

2. Work out to feel good, not be thinner.

Instead of obsessing over the scale, obsess over how amazing you feel since you started being more active. Numbers don't mean much.

3. Stop gossiping.

Don't be that person. Spread positivity.

4. Give one compliment a day.

You never know—it just might make that person feel a whole lot better.

5. Go a whole day without checking your email.

Nobody's going to die. It can wait until tomorrow.

6. Do Random Acts of Kindness.

7. Read a book a month.

Haven't you heard? Reading is good for your brain, it can reduce stress, and it can improve your memory and concentration.

8. Go someplace you've never been.

Step outside of your comfort zone and do something daring. It's good for the soul and forces you to learn new things.

9. Clear out the clutter.

Clutter is literally bad for your health. Research says it stresses you out. Make 2022 the year of organization and cleanliness.

10. Turn off your phone one night a week.

You're sleeping anyway. You don't need it!

11. Reduce your waste.

Some research says that the average American produces over 2,000 pounds of trash every year. Gross. Reduce your waste by ditching paper towels in favor of rags you cut up from old towels and clothes. Another easy switch is reusable grocery bags. It makes a difference!

12. Volunteer.

Not only is volunteering good for your own mental and physical health, but you're doing something kind and selfless for others.

13. Travel on a small budget.

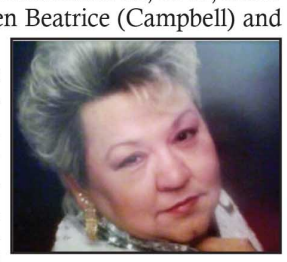
OBITUARIES...

Monica Beatrice Foster

November 19, 1948 - December 22, 2021

Monica Beatrice Foster, 73, of Justin, gained her angel wings on the morning of December 22, 2021, in Denton, Texas, following her battle with renal failure. Born in Princeton, Texas, on November 19, 1948, Monica was the daughter of Helen Beatrice (Campbell) and Ray Junior Williams.



Before retiring, Monica worked at Denton Community Hospital in registration. She enjoyed life to the fullest, and her favorite pastimes were sewing, Bingo, and heading North to WinStar. She loved dancing and listening to Conway Twitty and Loretta Lynn.

She was mom to four amazing children, whom she loved with all her heart. Monica was the type of mom who loved and treated the kiddos who came home with her children as her own. She was known as "mom" to most of them as well. She enjoyed helping others and was a loyal friend. She shared a friendship that spanned 43 years with Carolyn Finch, 25 years with Diana McCraw, and many others she shared deep friendships with. In addition, Monica became "Meemaw" to seven perfect grandchildren and three great-grandchildren who were even more perfect than the grands. They were her life, and each one her pride and joy.

Monica was preceded in death by her parents and beloved son, John Jay Ferrell. Remaining to cherish her memory are her three daughters, Shannon Parker (David) of Denton, Edee Sanford (Wayne) of Justin, Jessyca Ferrell of Ponder, one sister, Phyllis Lewis of Princeton. Seven grandchildren, Cassandra Wisdom (deceased), Leah Spencer, Gordon Drennon (Candi), Taylor Arrington (Katie), Dilan Stallings (Cody), Jordyn Beale, and A. J. Zellers; and three great-grandchildren, Sawyer, Rylic, and Raydon, also survive her.

In lieu of flowers, the family requests that memorials be made in Monica's name to the American Kidney Foundation, 2223 Buckner Blvd # 250, Dallas, TX 75227 or www.kidneyfund.org.

Fernando Rangel Escamilla

December 9, 1958 - December 18, 2021

Fernando Rangel Escamilla was born to Heriberto Escamilla and Clara Rangel on December 9, 1958 in La Paloma, TX. He spent his formative years in Ciudad Mante, Tamaulipas, Mexico, where he finished his formal education and began his lifelong career as a professional driver as a young man.

It was also in Ciudad Mante, at the age of eighteen, where he met Victoria Barcenas, who he would marry and share the rest of his life with. The pair moved to the United States in 1979, where they would raise their five children Juan Manuel, Heriberto, Fernando Jr., Rogelio, and Nayla, making their home in Justin, Texas. Fernando worked as a driver in Justin for Jus-Tex Enterprises and then Independent Environmental Services.

Fernando is remembered by his numerous friends as jovial, fun-loving, and loyal to a fault. To his family, Fernando will always be loved and cherished, and his family remain eternally grateful for the multitude of sacrifices that he endured on their behalf.

If love were the true measure of wealth, then there is no hesitation in declaring that Fernando Rangel Escamilla was a fortunate man. He is survived by a dutiful and loving wife, Victoria; five beloved children and their spouses, Juan Manuel (Keila Elkins), Heriberto "Eddie" (Leticia Escamilla), Fernando "Nando" (Tarrah Bey Escamilla), Rogelio "Roy" (Sarah Escamilla), and Nayla (Orestes Mederos); 11 grandchildren, Andrew Escamilla, Bailey Escamilla, Molly Escamilla, Mayah Escamilla, Hope Escamilla, Stephanie Victoria Drakes, Isaiah Escamilla, Maggie Escamilla, Gabriel Escamilla, Sophia Fernanda Mederos, and Arianna Escamilla; and one great-grandchild, Bradley Adam Robertson.

Services were with Coker Funeral Home in Sanger. Online condolences may be made to www.cokerfuneralhome.com.

Resolutions

"Traveling on a budget is all about flexibility and being willing to sacrifice a bit of comfort and luxury in favor of seeing the world and the life-changing experiences that travel comes with," says Eli Solidum, The Partying Traveler. "A lot of people have the idea that travel needs to be luxurious and holidays need to be expensive for them to be fun. My experience over the last three years of budget backpacking says otherwise."

14. Write down one thing you're grateful for every night.

End the night with gratitude and you'll feel better when you lay your head down on your pillow.

15. Drink more water.

You've probably heard that your body needs it. 75 percent of us are chronically dehydrated. Drink up!

16. Take some of your paychecks and put it in savings or investment. Even just a small percentage can really add up down the line. Plan for the future and don't be silly with your money.

17. Stop multi-tasking.

Multi-tasking can lead to memory problems, it reduces our brains' grey matter, it hurts productivity and efficiency, and it can even increase stress, anxiety, and depression. Focus on one thing at a time.

18. Talk to yourself with kindness.

We aim to be nice to others but then criticize ourselves relentlessly. Stop! Think nicer things about yourself.

19. Call a friend instead of texting them.

You can Facetime them for extra measure!

20. Don't buy things you don't need.

Bad habit. We love to spend money even if it's for no good reason. Don't need it? Don't buy it.

21. Keep a journal.

The University of Rochester Medical Center says that journaling can help battle anxiety, stress, and depression. Even if you write only a few sentences, you can reap the benefits.

22. Clean out your car.

It's so easy for it to become trashed, especially if you drive a lot. Spot clean as you go so that your ride is always looking sharp.

23. Put your bills on autopay.

If this won't put you under any financial stress, do it! It's one less thing you have to think about and you'll never pay late fees again. Win-win.

24. Take the stairs.

It's good for your caboose.

25. Go to the dentist when you're supposed to.

Your oral health can actually have an impact on things that are happening in other parts of your body, like your heart and lungs.

26. Be kind on social media.

"I think everyone who uses social media should strive to empathize more with strangers and respond to others on the internet with kindness," says Julia, also known as itsblitzzz. "Don't let hate or bullying be motivation for interacting on social platforms."

27. Let go of grudges.

Wouldn't it be nice to start 2022 with a clean slate? Leave hate behind. Anger is so 2021

28. Stay in touch with the people who matter.

Even a quick call, text, or email can make a world of difference.

29. Try a totally new restaurant.

Go on. Be adventurous. Get that strange sushi roll or order takeout from the Indian restaurant that just opened up down the street.

30. Start a new hobby.

Do new stuff. Let yourself blossom in 2022.

31. Travel somewhere without posting about it on social media.

"No status updates, no photos… just go on vacation and not tell anyone," says travel writer Reannon Muth. "That might seem silly but in a world where 'it didn't happen unless you post it about it on Instagram,' it can be a challenge to resist the temptation to post that sunset beach photo or poolside cocktail selfie." Here are safe vacations you can take during COVID!

32. Bring a plant into your home.

They might help reduce your stress and improve your productivity.

33. Sanitize your personal belongings.

Cell phones might be the dirtiest things we touch all day, with 25,127 bacteria per square inch. Nasty.

34. Start cooking!

Bonus points if it's something you feel like you're not good at.

35. Buy less plastic.

It's polluting our oceans, destroying the earth, and hurting animals. Be more aware of what you're buying.

36. Send handwritten letters.

Nobody does this anymore, and it's such a thoughtful, genuine gesture. Make somebody's day!

37. Donate clothes you never wear.

We tend to hang onto stuff "just in case." If you haven't worn it in a year, give someone else the chance to.

38. Pay off your credit card every month.

And if something is so expensive, you think that you won't be able to? Don't buy it.

39. Avoid people who complain a lot.

It doesn't matter how positive a person you are. Negativity spreads, and it will impact you. And on a similar note…

40. Remove negativity or anything that makes you feel lousy.

Even things like super sad movies or news sources that just upset you.

41. Travel somewhere with no map.

42. Wear sunscreen.

The sun can do damage even when you're driving in the car. Make SPF your new best friend.

43. Cook more.

It's therapeutic, and you'll probably end up with something pretty darn delicious.

44. Get a Real Haircut

Some of us are so attached to our hair—literally and figuratively. Chop off a few inches. You might feel like a new person.

45. Do Something That Scares You

Practice a little bravery.

46. Make Your Bed Every Morning

Making your bed helps you accomplish something first thing in the morning and thus starts your day with success.

47. Stay on Top of Your Inbox

Is the number of unread messages creeping up on you? Stay on top of it and aim to clear your inbox out throughout the week.

48. Try Guided Meditation

Meditation offers a whole host of science-based benefits, including reduced stress and anxiety and improved memory and attention span. Try an app like Headspace.

49. Stretch It Out

We spend so much time sitting and staring at our phones, all hunched over. Loosen up those tight muscles with even just five minutes of stretching each day.

50. Craft Something Yourself

Even if you're not the artsiest, DIY-type of person, the satisfaction you get from making something with your own hands is undeniable. It can be as small as a candle or as big as a coffee table.

51. Go to Bed Happy Each Night

"Never go to bed angry." It's a cliche, but it's true. Aim to start and end each day with happiness and gratitude.

52. Spot Clean as You Go

Overwhelmed by a filthy house you have to clean from top to bottom each weekend? Simple solution: Clean as you go. Wash dirty dishes after each meal and wipe down toilets and countertops throughout the week. Easy peasy.

53. Pay it Forward

Did someone do something nice for you recently? 2022 is a great time to do something nice for another. Maybe you'll pay for someone's coffee in the Starbucks drive-thru or buy a meal for a homeless person. Receive good things, and spread them, too.

54. Talk Less, Listen More

Good things happen and you learn and notice so much when you spend more time listening.

55. Whatever Your Goals Are, Write Them Down

People who write down their goals are 42 percent more likely to achieve them. Whatever you want in 2022, commit it to paper.

It isn't too late to go to Bethlehem

Bethlehem in Denton County is a gallery just 2 miles East of Blue Mound UMC between Denton and Sanger that houses the personal collection of more than 3,700 Nativities accumulated since 1970 and open to the public by appointment. Talents and imaginations of artists around the world inspired the creation of nativities made from almost everything medium imaginable depicting the Birth of Jesus Christ. Truly a collection worthy of a King, these depictions are creatively enhanced and displayed. Judy Klein, owner and "Mangermaid" will walk you through the gallery, explaining some of the cultures, telling you stories of how she got them, educating you about how they were made and what they mean. Her mission is to share God's Word, and this is how she does it. And she does it well.

Her faith and strong passion will lift your spirit, refresh your outlook, and definitely give you a new perspective as you see "Christmas" through the eyes of many talented artists. The gallery is open year-round, but by appointment only, weekdays, weekends, and some evenings. (Group max is 8) daughter, Shahla, were going to live in the mansion, which doubled as a private residence and entertaining space. The ranch was going to be devoted to raising Appaloosa horses.

Mansion

In a pamphlet advertising the ranch, the Powells planned to sell more than a dozen award-winning horses. According to original architecture plans, the third floor of the mansion was designed to showcase the horses. The elevator in the original plans was also big enough to fit a horse, Ramey said.

Construction halted after illness, a divorce and bankruptcy forced the Powells to pull the plug on the project in the mid-1980s. It's unclear what happened to Julie and Shahla, but Ramey said Joe continued to live in Sanger until his death.

In 1999, John W. Porter purchased the property to preserve the stables, and his son, John R. Porter, inherited the land. The family put up the stone facade, installed the roof and built some of the framing inside the house.

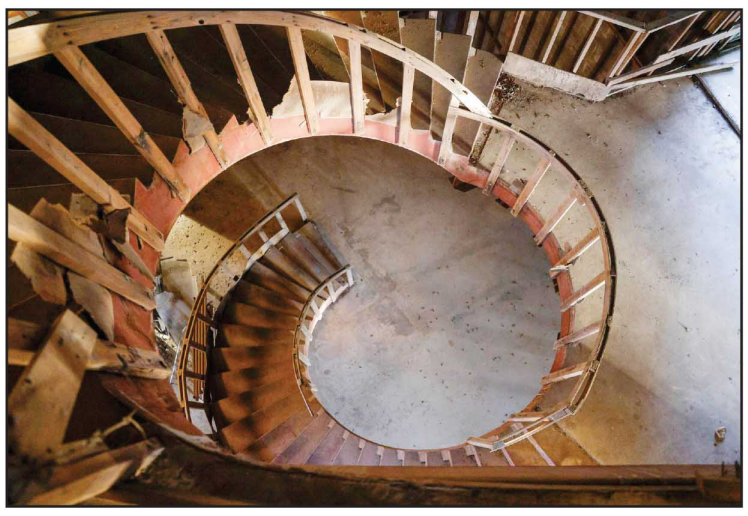
Porter donated part of the property to Sanger, and the city named a park on the land in honor of him.

Ramey's vision for the mansion is to create an all-inclusive venue with in-house vendors.

The first floor will feature a grand entrance, reception space, state-of-the-art kitchen and large glass windows to let in light. The second floor, part of which overlooks the ceremony space, will have about 10 bedrooms for overnight guests.

Isabel Ramey stands with her son Brady Hobbs, 7, and her partner, Kevin Martin, outside Bella Mansions in Sanger.

The first floor at Bella Mansions in Sanger.



A large spiral staircase winds its way from the first floor up to the third floor at Bella Mansions in Sanger.

The third floor will include a sitting area, a bridal suite, a groom's suite and a honeymoon suite.

The property, which is now about 9 acres, also includes vineyards with tempranillo and roussanne grapes, and a plan further down the road is to harvest the grapes for wine to serve at the venue.

So far, not much work has been done on the mansion because of permit delays and the coronavirus pandemic, but Ramey said she is aiming for Bella Mansions to be up and running within a year.

"We wanted it to be done by now," she said. "But with everything that's happened, we're really pushing for the end of 2022."
